Farm Bureau Notes

Announcements

The ladies of Marion are requested to donate dishes of potato salad as well as the farmers' wives of the county.

More animals to barbecue are needed and every one who has not furnished a carcass and can possibly do so are urged to get in touch with James Alex Hill. Animals are to be delivered Monday, those south of town to Will Fisher's farm on the Wayne road and all others to the stock pen at the Martin Mill.

Let's have every one in Crittenden County get behind this number last time.

Sheep Campaign

Farmers of Crittenden county are to receive special help with their sheep problems from August 1 to August 1 according to County Agent Spencer who announced today that a sheep raising campaign would be held in the county during that time by the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture which is cooperating with him in the work. The object of the campaign will be to help farmers select their sheep from their flock which are the most profitable both from the wool and lamb production standpoint and to suggest methods of raising that will improve the flocks of the county.

A number of community meetings were arranged at which time R. C. Moseley, who is in charge of the campaign, will discuss problems of sheep raising with the farmers. Moving picture films and lantern slides will be used to illustrate the lectures. The day following the night meeting a demonstration will be conducted at some farm in the community to show farmers how to distinguish between profitable and unprofitable animals in their flock. County Agent Spencer announced that four night meetings and five demonstrations would be held. Dates will be given next week.

A schedule of farms in which the poultry raising demonstrations for Crittenden county farmers and their wives will be conducted July 23 and 24th by County Agent Spencer in cooperation with the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture is as follows:

Thursday July 23 at J. A. Hunter's farm at Chapel Hill 10:15 W. R. Crayne's farm at Crayne road, 2:00 J. H. Carter's farm at Salem road 4:00 P. M. Bell's farm at the chapel.

Friday July 24 at H. H. Henry's farm near Brown School, 10:15 W. L. Terry's farm at Forest Grove, 2:00 Ben F. Drennon's farm near Deane road.

Farmers in the vicinity of the various farms will meet there at which time specialists from the poultry department of the college will assist County Agent Spencer in demonstrating to farmers and their wives the difference between the laying and the heavy laying hen. Birds of both types will be selected from the flock on the farm and the details of culling explained so that the farmers and their wives can go home and pick out the unprofitable hens from their own flock. Circulars will be distributed outlining in detail the difference between the hen that is a heavy producer of eggs and the one that lays from now until next spring.

This is only the start of the culling work in Crittenden county as it will be carried on by the County Agent. Farmers interested in this work are urged to get in touch with him so that further demonstrations may be arranged.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR BIG BARBECUE

Arrangements for the big free barbecue to be held next Wednesday July 27 in Marion, under the auspices of the Crittenden County Farm Bureau and the Marion Business Mens Association, are being completed rapidly. The farmers through the efforts of the Committee on Pledging Carcasses and members of the Farm Bureau, are donating carcasses for the occasion. The business men's association, through the various committees are doing their part in providing bread, pickles, preparing the grounds; dressing and barbecuing the meat and meeting all other numerous expenses of the day. This Association has secured a brass band to furnish music for the day.

The farmers' wives and the ladies of Marion are asked to furnish a dish of potato salad for the occasion. More animals are needed and every one who can furnish a carcass and can possibly do so are requested to get in touch with some member of the Pledging Committee.

The Entertainment Committee has arranged to have Geoffrey Morgan, Secretary of State Farm Bureau, to address the people. Mr. Morgan is a speaker worth going miles to hear. Mr. M. Hughes of the State College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky, will also be present and make an address. In addition to these men, local prominent men will deliver addresses appropriate to the occasion. Other entertainments are being provided for.

Come out and bring your family and we will make this one of Crittenden County's red letter days for The Crittenden County Farm Bureau.

WHEELER MAKES HIS DEBUT AT RICKWOOD WITH VICTORY

According to the Birmingham Age-Herald, Floyd Wheeler, the latest acquisition to the National hurling staff, made his debut as a local moundman in the final game against the Nougats. His bow before the local fans was impressive. His side arm delivery proved quite puzzling to his opponents and for six frames he held them to a couple of safe blows. Then with a commanding lead standing him in good stead Wheeler got a bit careless in the seventh and allowed five hits. Those five netted two runs.

In spite of the maddly condition of the grounds the contest was a fast one, it took only one hour and thirty three minutes to stage the game.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

In a little shady dell at the foot of the Tudor hills near the old Arch Walker place, on Sunday morning, the people of the Hills Mines and Rodney section began gathering and kept on until there was a large concourse of men, women and children assembled, laughing talking and having a general social time. Near at hand was a long improvised table, a barrel of ice water and gallons of lemonade. About the noon hour the good women of the community assisted the hostess, Mrs. Virginia Price, to load the table with good things to eat. When they announced "It is ready" we gathered around and found a feast that would satisfy the most fastidious tastes or appetites.

After the lunch we had our pictures made, sang and talked and then we had ice cream. Surely everyone present had a good time. Some of the oldest present were Uncle Willie Hamilton Uncle Dan King and Uncle Sam Dempsey.

If you had inquired what had occasioned this gathering and general good time you would have been informed that it was the thirty ninth anniversary of the birthday of Mrs. Price, wife of Milton Price, who lives near the above place. Mrs. and Mr. Price formerly were citizens of Henderson county but have come to make their home in Crittenden. We are glad they chose to live in our section because we are always glad to have accessions to our community who will add rather than take away from the social and religious functions of the neighborhood. Long may this good family to make things better around them.

Yours very truly E. J. T.

SMALL BLAZE

Wednesday morning about 11:30, a coal oil stove at the residence of U. A. Daugherty on E. Depot Street, burst into flames nearly causing a serious fire. Mrs. Daugherty was in the kitchen cooking dinner when the stove caught fire. She called to some of the neighbors and with their prompt assistance succeeded in extinguishing the flames before the fire truck arrived.

CAMPING TRIP

FORMER RESIDENT INJURED IN ACCIDENT

W. L. Adams, formerly of this place, but now located at Zillah, Washington happened to a serious accident recently. Of the accident the Zillah Mirror says:

Postmaster W. L. Adams, Mrs. Adams and several members of the family had a very narrow escape last Monday evening while motoring to the Post Office to check out the east bound evening mail. The steering gear of the car broke, the front wheels struck a rock in the road and the car swerved violently into a ditch.

Mrs. Adams was pinned under the auto and was not released from her perilous position until Mr. Adams summoned help. In this accident Mrs. Adams sustained a broken right arm and a sprained wrist besides several bruises about the head and body.

Miss Mabel Adams, who assists the post master in the office sustained a dislocated collar bone. Mr. Adams received an ugly gash across the back of the right hand and a broken rib. Houston Adams was cut about the mouth and cheek and suffered a badly bruised hip. Grace Adams was slightly bruised about the head and body.

MARION WINS IN NINTH

The Marion Reds defeated Kuttawa on the home lot Wednesday afternoon to the tune of 6 to 5. Marion made four runs in the last half of the ninth. A small crowd attended the game and the team just about broke even as the expenses.

Kuttawa made two runs in the fifth inning and two more in the fifth. The Reds registered their first tally in the sixth frame and though runners got as far as third they were unable to score again before the ninth. In this inning Jimmy Kinsey with two men on and one man gone knocked the ball in his favorite spot over the ditch and scored the runners and himself on a couple of wild throws. This tied the score. Homer McConnell followed with a single and scored the winning run on Lamb's long hit to center field.

Kinsey pitched for the local team and did excellent work and was well supported there being very little raised fielding. Claud Green did some good hitting. At a whole Kuttawa had the hard est hitting team of the two and only lost the game because of a "blow up" in the ninth.

PROHIBITION ON TRIAL. A WARNING TO THE VOTERS

There is just now an effort being made to convince the voters that the liquor question has been settled and there is no longer any necessity to consider the matter when we go to cast our ballots. The boot-leggers and the liquor men are organized and before we cast our votes in the coming general election we had better find out who the liquor people are supporting, they always know just who they can depend on to permit them to violate the laws against the liquor traffic and go unpunished and they will all be found working for the candidates that they can depend upon. We who favor the enforcement of the laws should get our heads together and support only men whom we can depend upon to faithfully do their duty and we should be ware of those who have always represented the liquor interest and who now claim that they have recently changed. The good women should be sure before they cast their votes that the candidate for public office has been and is yet in favor of prohibition and the strict enforcement of the prohibition laws and if we fail we can rest assured that the prohibition question is not settled or at least will not stay settled. In the interest of our boys and girls and in the interest of the Master's cause let's do our duty at the coming election.

OBITUARY

Anna Evelyn Guess, the little girl of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Little was born June 8, 1921 and died Sunday night June 26. Her stay on earth was short being only two weeks and four days. But the time was long enough to win the love. A sweet little life to be missed so much and to make home here some without her presence, a precious tiny bud that was budded on earth to bloom in Heaven. But Jesus said suffer little children to come unto me for such is the Kingdom of Heaven. I would say to the bereaved ones to weep not but live in a way to meet her some day in the happy Golden Shore. She has gone back to the God that gave her.

Sleep baby till we meet thee one by one. The funeral was conducted by Broth. P. L. McDowell of Marion Monday afternoon at 2:30 in the presence of a number of sorrowing friends and relatives and the tiny little body was placed away in Piney Fork Cemetery to await the Resurrection Morn.

FARM STOCK

MILK ESSENTIAL FOR STOCK

While Good Pasture is Important for Calves No Substitute Will Take Place of Milk.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

"You cannot starve a young animal so as to check its growth, and still get good results." This comment by a bluestocking farmer on the problem of preventing runtiness in live stock is in accord with the experience of several hundred other live stock owners who have contributed their experience to the United States Department of Agriculture's study of this subject. "Starvation," he adds, "caused by the robbery of the weak by stronger animals, improper and unscientific feeding, indigestion caused by careless feeding and clean troughs, pale and soft barrels—all of these things cause much of the trouble in farmer's experience especially in their hog lots." In discussing the importance of milk as an essential food both for live stock and people, he remarks that while good pasture is very essential to the growth of calves, for veal calves no substitute will take the place of fresh cow's milk. "From my own experience," he states, "I know that a young animal will recover from retarded or stunted growth. As a child I was normal in size and my parents were of strong sturdy Scotch stock. When some years ago my parents settled as pioneers in Iowa, meat was a luxury, and milk and butter were obtainable at least for the first year. At the end of the year we got a cow and chickens, so our living conditions improved." He adds that malaria followed and although he outgrew the effects of the disease, he never gained the physical strength, weight or development of bone and muscle that he should have had. "My normal weight," he says, "has been about 125 pounds, and still my health has been the best since I got the shakies. Keep your young animals growing."

PRODUCTION OF GOOD HORSES

Increase in Number of Draft Animals Held to Be Great Need, Says Wayne Dinwiddie.

Horse dealers feel that the horse is "coming back." According to information gathered by the Horse Association of America and transmitted to J. F. Kuehn of university farm, secretary of the Minnesota Horse Breeders' association, more draft horses are now being sold for city use than for many years past. Increased production of good horses is held to be a great need at present. Wayne Dinwiddie, an authority well known in horse circles, says: "You can safely assure the farmers of a better market for their surplus animals."

HIGH SILLS CAUSE OF LOSS

Nebraska Breeder Finds That Little Pigs Are Unable to Follow Sows Into Pens.

Many pigs are lost and others are stunted in growth as the result of exposure because of high sills in front of hogpens. This is the observation of a Nebraska swine grower in a letter to the United States Department of Agriculture on the cause of runtiness in swine. He states that stockmen as they enter equipment, and be certain sows into pens are able to follow the sows into pens. Attention to better pen construction and pure swine are of preventing runtiness as well.

BENEFIT OF STABLE MANURE

It Should Be Balanced With Phosphate, Which Is Commonly Inexpensive.

Manure contains humus in plenty and all the necessary plant materials, as well as bacteria which put these materials into the most available shape for crops. To get the full benefit of stable manure, however, it should be balanced with acid phosphate, which is comparatively inexpensive.

KEEPING HARNESS IN REPAIR

Neglect Results in Injury That Lessens Durability—Sew With Strong Linen Thread.

Neglect of harness results in injury that greatly lessens its durability. The sewing, which should have been done with strong, waxed linen thread, must be kept in good condition. All harnesses should remain tightly in shape. It is advisable to wash and oil harness frequently.

A VISIT TO COLDSTREAM FARM.

By Edward O'Hallan, Jr.

The announcement of a special event at Coldstream Farm for the first day of August, coincided the first day of a year that promises to be the most successful in the history of the farm.

OUR INVOLUBLE RIGHTS

Our forefathers, by the laws of the old country were mere slaves. They had neither religious, political or personal freedom. Hence they sought the shores of America, they severed connections with home, with church and with friends for the sake of freedom. They were forced to undergo terrible sacrifices but they persisted and for us they bought freedom with their blood. They sought God rather than gold and they were successful in finding both. They gave to us religious, political and personal freedom.

But our freedom has become a snare to us as a people. We have spread out so much, allowed so many injustices to ourselves and let the fence so low that it has cheapened human life, society and property until the entire nation has become imperiled. We have let other nations make us the dumping ground for all that is undesirable within their own boundaries: the ignorant, the filthy and thriftless and the criminal elements from every nation have teemed to our shores with an unchecked stream; the elements that do not care a rap whether the government and the churches of the United States survive or not.

This vast horde of undesirable aliens, dominated by beastly appetites and Bolshevistic ideas that are over-running America must be checked. We must get rid of them in some manner or as a nation the United States will strike the rocks. Immigration should be stopped and every adult who is not AMERICAN in heart, body and soul should be deported.

You hear a great deal about the good old days but suppose you had to go back to the coal-oil lamp, no telephones, no ice for the sick; no screens for your doors and windows; and ride horseback or walk. Excuse us, we prefer the good days NOW.

The peace resolutions were passed July 1st by Congress and the big fight was staged the next

In our opinion, the President did a wise thing when he appointed W. H. Taft, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

Over one million dollars were paid by the American people to see a prize fight that lasted only 13 minutes. Yet people cry Hard Times.

The Court of Appeals has declared the Compulsory School Law valid and now it is up to the truant officers to enforce it. Every normal child should be in school.

Here's why CAMELS are the quality cigarette

BECAUSE we put the utmost quality into this one brand. Camels are as good as it's possible for skill, money and lifelong knowledge of fine tobaccos to make a cigarette.

Nothing is too good for Camels. And bear this in mind! Everything is done to make Camels the best cigarette it's possible to buy. Nothing is done simply for show.

Take the Camel package for instance. It's the most perfect packing science can devise to protect cigarettes and keep them fresh. Heavy paper—secure foil wrapping—revenue stamp to seal the fold and make the package air-tight. But there's nothing flashy about it. You'll find no extra wrappers. No frills or furbelows.

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And remember—you must pay their extra cost or get lowered quality.

If you want the smoothest, mellowest, mildest cigarette you can imagine—and one entirely free from cigarettey aftertaste.

It's Camels for you.

LIVE STOCK NEWS

IMPORTANCE OF BEST STOCK

Good Care and Right Kind of Feed Are Best Means of Preventing Underbred Animals.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The importance of good breeding in the growth of live stock, and especially in the prevention of underbred animals, is a subject of growing importance. It is a subject which has attracted the attention of the United States Department of Agriculture. The department has been studying the problem of underbreeding for many years, and has found that it is a serious problem which affects the health and productivity of live stock. The department has been working to improve the quality of live stock by promoting good breeding practices and by providing information to farmers and breeders.

In addition to good breeding, the care and feeding of live stock are also important factors in the prevention of underbreeding. The department has found that live stock which are well cared for and well fed are more likely to produce healthy and productive offspring.

SCRUB PIGS ARE EXPENSIVE

Virginia Farmer Finally Convinced That Purebreds Are Most Profitable Animals

The county agent of Page county, Virginia, tried last summer to persuade a farmer to keep purebred pigs instead of scrubs. The farmer was skeptical at first, but the county agent persisted. The farmer finally decided to try purebred pigs, and he was amazed at the results. The purebred pigs were much healthier and more productive than the scrubs, and the farmer was able to sell them for a much higher price.

BEST FOR FATTENING STEERS

Feed Dally an Average of Fifty Pounds of Silage, Some Oil Meal and Clover Hay

One of the cheapest and best ration for fattening steers is an average daily of 50 pounds of silage, two or three pounds of oil meal and two or three pounds of clover hay. With corn as cheap as it is in most localities it is a good plan to add to this ration during the last two months of the feeding period an ever increasing amount of corn.

EARLY SHEARING IS FAVORED

Lambs Thrive Better if Mother Is Not Compelled to Suffer From Carrying Heavy Coat of Wool

Practice early shearing. Sheep born early will thrive better and the lambs will also do better if the mother is not compelled to suffer from carrying a heavy coat of wool in her womb. There is but little gain in the weight of the wool after the weather gets warm, not enough to make it worth while to leave it on when the comfort of the animal is considered.

CARE FOR FATTENING LAMBS

Give an Abundance of Succulent Forage Supplemented With Different Kinds of Grain.

Special care should be given the fattening lambs as soon as they are weaned. Abundance of succulent forage supplemented with grain feeds that can usually be given on the farm with the addition of a small amount of wheat bran and oil meal, has always produced the best results.

CONGRESS APPROPRIATES A QUARTER MILLION DOLLARS FOR HORSE BREEDING.

Money To Be Spent Under Supervision of Army Officers To Raise More Thoroughbred Horses for Cavalry Purposes.

OTHER GOVERNMENTS SPEND MUCH MORE.

Realizing the necessity of government interest, supervision and participation in breeding of thoroughbred horses, if the United States is to take her rightful position with the other countries of the world, the United States Congress has made an appropriation of a quarter of a million dollars to be expended in horse breeding.

While this is a very small amount when compared with the millions of dollars expended by the governments of England, France, Italy and Spain in this work, it is being effectively used to enlarge the number of thoroughbred horses suitable for cavalry mounts.

In explaining the plans of the United States government for the breeding of more and better horses, the Hon. E. A. Tamm, Secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture, said:

"The world war brought out the fact that the National Defense demands, not only thousands upon thousands of horses and mules, but horses and mules of good breeding. Quality and breeding in the horse and mule is what gives them the staying power in danger and emergency, as well as for the less spectacular, but not less important, service in connection with agricultural and commercial pursuits.

What is true to the horse is true to the man. Courage in the soldier we call morale. In the farmer the quality is that of the will to stay when threatened by the common insect to faller which means failure and defeat.

"The United States is the great horse and mule market of the world. Our allies depended upon us for the major supply of their war horses and mules. Thousands upon thousands were sold to the British, French, Italian, Belgian, Greek and other governments. The supply that could be sold was limited only by the ships available for their transportation abroad, and by the fact that rationing was naturally of the first import.

"The first try from abroad was for men, then for foodstuffs to feed their millions of soldiers and our men met the demand for ammunition—the stuff that made the bullets fly that raked the enemy's lines of operations and his lines of communication. In the battle of the war horse and the war mule, in quantities never before approached.

"Automotive vehicles were used in great numbers. Yes, that is true, and it will be true in the future. But war and the horse and the mule continue to be inseparable. The great military migration of the past—those, indeed, of civilization itself—are so linked with the horse that his production and improvement may be said to have been coincident with man's. Motor power has not killed the horse and mule industry. Every member of the species has a valuable and important place to fill, motive power in the ordinary run of life, and in the extraordinary run of life.

"The breeding of horses and mules far from being a dead end, should be practiced in the spirit of the utmost optimism and confidence. True, the horse and mule market is small. The demand, however, for every class will come again before the colts are bred mature. All our best informed horsemen, breeders and farmers recognize this fact and advise doubling our attention to the work of breeding.

"Meanwhile better horses and mules should be the aim of every breeder. We need better blood, more quality, hence, a more valuable animal. A well bred, sound animal, of good conformation and quality of any class, will always bring a high price and a handsome profit to the breeder. It is the scrub or ordinary animal that loses the breeder and farmer money.

The scrub also as much forage and takes as much care as the high class animal, and one has nothing at maturity. The progeny of high class, pure bred stallions that have proved their courage, endurance and speed in competition, and selected farm mares, will bring the breeder an increasing profit as the time goes on.

"The government is backing the production of these better horses and mules. This work is being accomplished by the War Department through the Remount Service, under the Quartermaster General of the U. S. Army.

"The last Congress appropriated a quarter of a million dollars to further these plans. The project also is being backed by an auxiliary society of the Remount Service, known as the American Remount Association, composed of army officers, civilians, breeders, farmers, ranchmen, horsemen, owners of race horses, drivers and riders.

"To protect owners, users and breeders and dealers against unjust and unreasonable legislation.

"To gather, coordinate and disseminate data on breeding, feeding, stable management and care of animals.

"To promote and encourage horse shows, race and hunt meets, polo, horse fairs and riding and driving by means of sponsoring for prizes and ribbons.

"To encourage the use of the horse commercially and for sport in healthy, outdoor exercise.

"To give the riding and driving horses freedom from degeneration and extinction.

"To induce our people with a patriotic understanding that the horse and mule is necessary for our National Defense.

"Our immediate concern is to save the riding and driving horse and mule from extinction. We want to produce a truly American type of cavalry horse—a horse with breeding and quality, as well as bone and substance—a weight carrier and the best general purpose horse known to the horse world—standing from 15 to 17 hands, weighing from 1,200 to 1,400 pounds, with good legs and action, a walk that, when the horse is in a walk, is smooth and follows the ground, and a drive to the front that can be used in any class of work and in any kind of terrain.

"Among the conditions to be placed upon the breeders of this type of horse are: That the horse be bred to a high class of blood, and that the horse be bred to a high class of blood, and that the horse be bred to a high class of blood.

"The New York Jockey Club, I may add, has established a high class registry at Avon, New York, with Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth in charge. This makes it possible for the farmers and owners of these horses to have a high class registry at a nominal fee of $1.00, which registration is freely recommended, because when the farmer or breeder desires to dispose of these horses, a better price will be paid by civilians for the registered colts than for those that are not registered. In addition to this registration is necessary if any type or breed of horse is to be established and recognized.

All necessary information in regard to this registration may be had by writing to: Halfbred Registration Bureau, New York Jockey Club, Avon, New York.

"Plans for an organization similar to that in charge of Mrs. Wadsworth are now under way in the interests of Kentucky breeders and farmers."

KEEP PUREBRED LIVE STOCK

North Dakota Farmer Eliminates Runts by Liberal Feeding and Proper Management.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture

To obtain the most rapid growth and best development of live stock keep good stock and see that nothing checks its growth from the time it is born. This is the method by which a North Dakota farmer prevents runts among his animals.

In a letter on this subject to the United States Department of Agriculture, which has been studying the cause and prevention of undernourished animals he says. "In the 40 years of my farming and breeding and raising live stock of all kinds I do not remember a runt in any class or breed. I have always been a liberal feeder and a good caretaker. Besides, all stock had access to good fresh water at all times. With this in addition to good shelter and ventilation, it seems that my young stock would not stop growing from the time they were born. Use good judgment in feeding, and don't neglect the details."

There is No Excuse for Runt Pigs

A farmer in Vermont writes: "A well-bred animal well cared for will not produce runts. There is absolutely no excuse for runts in live stock or poultry. By watching the stock I mean strong healthy stock well taken care of for several generations, and bred for constitution. This has been my experience from boyhood. Start with rabbits and game fowls, and later with sheep, hogs, horses and cattle. An accident to a well-bred and healthy animal will, if the accident occurs before it reaches maturity, affect its size but not its productive capacity. That is it will not influence its ability to produce such young as it would have had if no accident had occurred. Eliminate all females that are not good mothers and you will soon stamp the whole herd with constitution. Then with care which means attention and feed your runts will fall to materialize."

ONLY BEST PUREBREDS SOLD

Some Breeders Insist That Every Animal They Buy or Sell Must Pass Standard.

So strongly has the purpose of the better stock campaign, now being conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture, appealed to some breeders that they are not content with purebreds only, but every animal they buy or sell in addition to being a purebred must pass a standard of excellence. The methods of one breeder in Upshur county, West Virginia, according to a report received by the department illustrate this tendency. This breeder has a fine herd of Angus cattle. All calves which fall below the standard of excellence that he has set are not registered but are either castrated or sold on the open market as common cattle.

GIVE EWES NUTRITIOUS FEED

Animals Entitled to Liberal Treatment While Carrying Young and Growing Wool.

After the ewes are bred they are growing their young growing a crop of wool, maintaining their own body and should be fed accordingly. Give the ewes enough good nutritious feed to keep them in a good healthy, thrifty condition. Where pasture is abundant, they will need no other feed, as green feed is the natural and best feed for sheep.

BROOD SOWS NEED EXERCISE

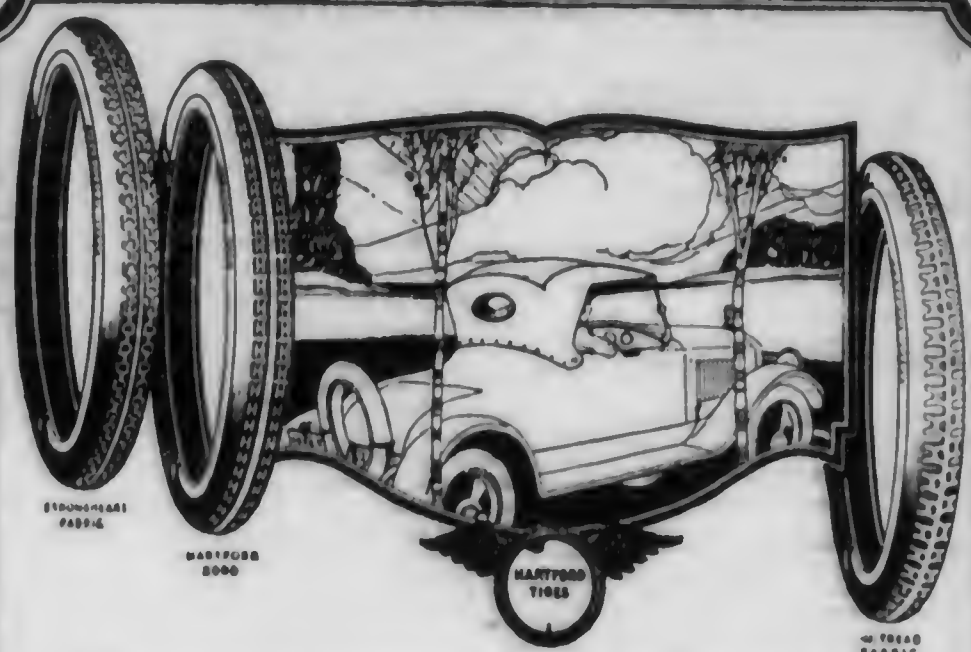

Good Plan to Compel Animal to Come Out of Sleeping Quarters for Her Daily Feed.

Brood sows need exercise to avoid becoming too fat at farrowing time. Exercise can be forced on the sow by forcing her to come out for feed instead of feeding close to the sleeping quarters.

EXCELLENT FEED FOR HORSES

Carrots Are Particularly Refreshing to Hunter or Work Animal—Usually Fed Raw.

Carrots are not excelled as a food for the horses. They are particularly refreshing given to a hunter after a hard day over rough country, or to a work horse. They are usually fed raw or sliced.

DRIED CORN IS MOST SUPERIOR

Canned Vegetable Can Be Used for Wide Variety of Purposes in Cooking.

GATHER WHEN IN MILK STAGE

Any of Sweet Varieties Having Qualities Desirable for Table Use Will Make Good Product—Sun Is Factor in Drying.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A vegetable which, when dried, is above criticism even by the most critical, is corn. Other kinds of garden products may or may not be liked by many people, but dried corn is the equal if not the superior of canned corn and can be used for practically as wide a variety of purposes. The following directions for drying it are those advised by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Any of the varieties of sweet corn having qualities desirable for table use will make a good dried product. Corn intended for drying should be gathered when in the milk stage before glazing and hardening have begun and when the corn is in an ideal condition for immediate table use. It should be gathered only as it can be prepared for drying, as corn deteriorates rapidly.

Careful Preparation Essential.

Shuck the ears and trim with a knife to remove any injuries. The silk need not be removed, as it can be readily separated from the corn after drying. Place the ears in wire baskets or wire-bottom boxes and plunge into boiling water for eight to twelve minutes, or until the silk is set. A little salt may be added to the water if desired. Divide the corn into older and younger lots before blanching, as the younger ears require somewhat longer cooking than the older ones.

After cooking, remove corn from the water, allow it to drain and cool sufficiently to be handled and cut from the cobs with a strong sharp knife, taking care that none of the cob is removed with the kernels. The glumes or the hull attachments at the tip of the grains are easily screened out after the corn becomes dry. Spread the kernels upon trays to a depth of 1 inch if drying is done in a drier, or 1/2 to 3/4 inch if the corn is to be dried in the sun. Stir the grains thoroughly several times during the drying to break up any compact masses.

Sun Factor in Drying Corn.

It is practically impossible to bring corn to a sufficient degree of dryness by the unaided heat of the sun. If corn is dried in the sun it should be finished by pouring into bread pans, placing in the oven of the stove, and warming to 100 to 105 degrees Fahrenheit for two hours. Whether the drying is done in the sun, in a cook stove drier, or in a commercial drier, it should be continued until the grains are hard, semitransparent and will break with clean, glasslike fractures if crushed.

Before storing free the corn of silk, glumes, and bits of cob. This may be done by pouring the corn from one vessel to another in a strong draft.

One Very Satisfactory Way of Drying Fruits and Vegetables at Home

When the corn is dry, store in closely woven muslin bags or heavy paper bags. Tie tightly at the neck and place within a larger bag, which also should be tightly tied.

Do not allow the drying process to stop from the time it is started until the corn is fairly dry. Corn is a product which contains considerable sugar and protein, and if the drying process is allowed to stop, bacteria are apt to develop and souring takes place. Protect it from insects. If sun drying is interrupted by cloudy weather or showers, remove corn to the stove and continue drying or the product may spoil.

There are card-table covers made of thin patent leather, bound with heavy corded silk at the edges, with ribbons to tie them around in place. These are admirable, for their bright varnished surface makes them slippery and smooth—an advantage always in a card-table cover.

SPINACH IS ADAPTED FOR EVERY LOCALITY

Plant Requires Rich Soil and Stands Cold Well.

Seed Bed Should Be Spaded and Quantity of Well-Rotted Manure Worked In—It Is Best for Use While Young and Tender.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Well-grown spinach is one of the best early spring and late fall greens that can be raised in the garden. Spinach is adapted for growing in practically every locality, requires a rich soil, stands cold as well or better than does lettuce, but does not do well during the hot part of the summer. United States Department of Agriculture garden specialists suggest one or two plantings in the early spring, just as soon as the danger of severe frost is past, and a planting late in the summer for fall use. Throughout the Splendid Patch of Spinach.

South spinach can be planted in October and remain in the open ground all winter.

For growing spinach in the home garden a bed about 5 feet in width and 20 or 30 feet in length should be spaded and a quantity of well-rotted manure worked into the top 8 inches of soil. Three pounds of commercial fertilizer should also be scattered over the surface and well worked into the soil. Six or eight ounces of seed will be sufficient for this space. Row in little drills or furrows running lengthwise of the bed, the rows to be about 6 or 7 inches apart. The seed should be covered 1/2 inch deep and the soil slightly firmed over it. Watering may be necessary if the weather should be extremely dry following the planting of the spinach seed.

Spinach grows quickly and requires very little cultivation, except to loosen the soil a trifle between the rows and keep weeds from getting a start. If the plants are too thick—that is, crowd each other—they can be thinned out and those removed in thinning cooked for greens. The plants left will then have room to grow larger. Spinach is very desirable as an early spring green, as it contains plenty of iron and other mineral matter. It should always be used while young and tender.

QUALITIES OF FARM FENCES

To Give Satisfaction Barrier Must Be Made to Turn All Stock Without Injuring Them.

Farm fences should combine two qualities—service and economy—says the United States Department of Agriculture. To give satisfactory service the fence must be constructed so as to turn all kinds of stock without injuring them. To be economical it must be built as cheaply as is consistent with durability. The fence that is erected at a low initial cost is not necessarily economical, for it may be so short that it will be very expensive in the end.

The cost of maintaining a farm fence is determined by such factors as interest, repairs, and depreciation on the fence itself. Interest on the value of land rendered unusable, and the expense of keeping down weeds. The cost of repairs and the annual depreciation depend largely on the construction. If a fence is made of a cheap grade of material and is cheaply constructed it will need frequent repair and will be short-lived. Such a fence will have a high repair and depreciation charge, which in most cases will more than counterbalance the increased investment cost that the erection of a more substantial fence would require. If a fence is made of good materials and is properly built, its repair and depreciation charges should be very low.

The efficiency of a fence depends upon the quality of wire and posts used and upon the manner of construction.

LIME CORRECTS SOUR SOILS

Application Will Prove Beneficial to Small Garden Plot—Binds Loose, Sandy Loams.

An application of about 50 pounds of hydrated or slaked lime to a garden plot 50 by 50 feet in size will often prove beneficial. Lime has the effect of loosening and pulverizing any heavy clay soil and of binding loose, sandy soil. Lime also corrects sourness in the soil, which is often due to lack of drainage, but in a case of this kind drainage should be secured.
